

- Say, I've got a riddle for you.

- What?

- What is a fruit that is the color of an orange, but it's not an orange.

- Give me a hint.

- It has a zipper skin.

- Let's zip it off of the skin?

- Uh huh, and it's spelled T-A-N-G-E-R-I-N-E.

- I've got it, a tangerine! (children in audience laughing)

- Yes, a tangerine! You're so smart. Have one? I'll zip it open.

- Ah, you never let me have any fun.

- Yes I do 'cause most of the fun is eating tangerines. See each slice looks like a smile and tangerines give you lots of natural vitamin C. Have a tangerine right now while you're watching TV and kids ask mom to pack a tangerine in your lunchbox, one for dad too, and mom tangerines are the perfect between meal treat. They taste sweet and don't spoil appetites.

- Get a bowl today, the Florida tangerine season is short.
