

- You know how it is when you're trying to put eyedrops in, you hesitate to open your eye and your hand wavers a little, and you never know if the drops are going in your eye or down your neck. That can't happen with Ocusol. Ocusol has a little nose bridge that helps hold it steady until you're ready to open your eye. (energetic trumpet music) You can't get the redness out until you get the drops in. (energetic trumpet music)