

- They brought me into an interrogation room. There's an escort team, they are working for those people who is going to an interrogation and coming back. So they picked me up brought me in a tent, I had to sit on the floor and I was shackled my hands from my back. And they came with something I didn't saw it before, It was the first time I saw it. It's like a box, like a ACO. It's like a battery.

Interviewer: Oh battery? It's something like a battery. And there was two things you can, it's looks like those ones what the doctor is using for people who his heart not working anymore. I don't know how it's called something like electroshock.

Interviewer: Right.

- What the doctor one use? Yeah, it's looked very similar. It was just a little bit old I guess. So they used on my feet, they used on my feet they put it on my toes.

Interviewer: Right.

- And of course if they use electroshocks on you you can't talk and they didn't ask me if I will sign or not They said just, "Do you like it? Is it good like that?" and they just keep doing it and I couldn't say anything. After then they brought me just like the next day they asked me if I am going to sign or not, and if not they they will continue to try everything to make me sign. And I said, "I will not sign". After then, after a while they put me in an hangar They hang me on chains by my hands, I had handcuffs on my hands and those handcuffs they roped with a chain and pull me on the ceiling by those chains. (mumbles) my feet used to hang over the floor. And I had also shackles on my legs. So all my body used to hang over the floor. And they didn't... The doctor came a couple hours later the doctor came and when the doctor came they put me back down. He checked my eyes and he checked my fingernails he looked if everything is okay if I can survive, if I can survive more or not. And if he said, "okay" then they put me just back up and he said every time, "okay". He came and he checked my eyes and everything, after then he said, "okay" they put me back up. And the doctor came twice like twice a day, and the interrogator also he came twice a day.

Interviewer: Did they talk to you while you were hanging? Or they just let you hang?

- When the interrogator came they pulled me back down, and he asked me if I will sign or not. If I will sign they said they will stop it. And the last couple of days I can't remember well because I start to pass out.

Interviewer: From hanging?

- Yeah, from hanging and it's not just the hanging it's also very cold it was during wintertime. It was short after Christmas it was very cold and in Afghanistan that place, Kandahar it's very cold. I guess it was like 10 under zero, it's Fahrenheit.

Interviewer: What were you wearing?

- I had just shorts, I had just shorts. That is after then he asked me if I will sign or not, every time I said no he said, "Just pull him back up" and it was the same thing like the first three days I could remember one, just the last two days I can't remember. After, after they brought me back I asked the other prisoners how long I did stay away, they told me it was five days.
