- You know I graduated to Carling's because I wanted a brew that was light. Just look at that. Clear, bright, and lighthearted. And when you first taste Carling's you'll know why they call it lighthearted. You see Carling's has the heart Canadian ales are famous for plus the lightness we Americans like. It costs no more than fine premium beer. And if your grocer or your favorite bar doesn't have Carling's, ask them to get it for you. Step up your pleasure, graduate to lighthearted Carling's.
