

Father: Oh, no, what's this?

- Got into a fight on the way home from the dentist.

- And, who won?

- Well, I did, sorta, but I ripped my good pants. Do I have to tell Mom?

- Well, you're gonna have to. (hand scuffing against son's pants) She's gonna to be mad, but some good news on your checkup would help.

- Yeah, I had another good checkup. Only two cavities. She's always after me about my teeth.

- And one more thing. Let Mom know that she was right about the Crest and its fluoride. Give me a hand with this tree.

Narrator: Crest can't promise everyone results like this because everybody's different, (father and son chattering) but Crest has fluoride, so we can promise to fight cavities, and Crest is accepted by the American Dental Association. Fighting cavities is the whole idea behind Crest.

- Let's go. Oh, Wait a minute. Before you tell your mother about the checkup, wash your face, okay?