

- Excuse me, but you've changed her three times since I've been here.

- Are you Mrs. Applebee, the baby nurse?

- Any problems?

- I worry about her being wet and uncomfortable.

- Use Pampers.

- I thought cloth was best.

- Cloth can't keep her as dry and comfortable as Pampers. Cloth stays wet.

Mom: Sure does.

Mrs. Applebee: But Pampers' stay-dry lining helps keep moisture away from the baby's skin.

- Pampers is drier.

- It sure is. Pampers keep babies drier than cloth, and that's what comfort's all about.
