- This next song is called "We'll Never Turn Back" and it originally was a memorial for a man named Herbert Lee, who lived in Mississippi down around Liberty, in Amite County, near McComb. Magnolia, (inaudible) those towns right around there. Herbert Lee was a 58 year old farmer. The only way he got paid, he'd grow cotton, and this is the only way he got his money and when we went into McComb to work on voter registration he got involved and he became a registered voter luckily. He went on to try and get other people registered, but he had a neighbor who lived across the highway who happens to be white and who didn't particularly like what he was doing. Who one morning followed him to the cotton gin to the cotton gin, he was taking his cotton to the gin and his neighbor followed him to the cotton gin and there he shot and killed him in cold blood and right there at the cotton gin they cleared the man of the charge. They called it self defense And we had a man who was going to testify who witnessed the shooting and everything, who was going to testify that here he's killed a man in cold blood, but he wanted protection and he asked the federal government who would protect him The federal government said "you can't send anybody "down there just to protect one man." So this is why we're not getting any protection protecting too either from the federal government or any help period. It's nothing like what it should be. But this song is called "We'll Never Turn Back." ♪ We've been 'buked ♪ ♪ We've been scorned ♪ ♪ We've been talked about ♪ ♪ Sure as you born ♪ ♪ But we'll never ♪ ♪ Turn back ♪ ♪ No we'll never ♪ ♪ Turn back ♪ ♪ Until we've all ♪ ♪ Been freed ♪ ♪ And we have ♪ ♪ Equality ♪ ♪ We have walked ♪ ♪ Through the shadows of death ♪ ♪ We had to walk ♪ ♪ All by ourselves ♪ ♪ But we'll never ♪ ♪ Turn back ♪ ♪ No we'll never ♪ ♪ Turn back ♪ ♪ Until we've all ♪ ♪ Been freed ♪ ♪ And we have ♪ ♪ Equality ♪ ♪ We have hung our ♪ ♪ Heads and cried ♪ ♪ For those like ♪ ♪ Lee who died ♪ ♪ Died for you ♪ ♪ And died for me ♪ ♪ Died for the cause ♪ ♪ Of equality ♪ ♪ But we'll never ♪ ♪ Turn back ♪ ♪ No we'll never ♪ ♪ Turn back ♪ ♪ Until we have all ♪ ♪ Been freed ♪ ♪ And we have ♪ ♪ Equality ♪ ♪ And we have ♪ ♪ Equality ♪ (clapping) The next song came out (inaudible) Jackson, Mississippi during the Freedom Rides. When they put us in jail in Jackson or when they put us in jail then in Mississippi they separate the Negro from the whites. They put the white on one side and they put the Negro on one side in case you don't know how it is when they put you in jail down south, they separate you. So, the only thing we had to do when we were in jail was to sing. We sang sometimes all night long. We got kind of bored because the white guys were way over there and we were way over here and we could hear each other this is all. So we would sing together and so we thought we would do something to make it interesting, so we had talent contests. (laughs) The white side would sing a song and then the Negro side would. (laughing) So we always teased the white guys about not being able to sing. (laughs) So early one morning one of the fellas hollered over to our side and he said "hey Charlie, "I woke up with it this morning." Nobody knew what he was talking about until he started singing this song. - You know, when I introduce this song I generally say living in the South you can find a method there in most of the time for sitting in at lunch counters and things to this effect. But I understand that you all are gonna have a sit-in here at the barbershop (laughs) So you still look good everywhere if you flip. But we do find it necessary a lot of times to sit-in in various places. And when we sit-in the first thing we see is the police coming and the first thing that they say is "move on." Some of you are familiar with it, I'm sure some of you have participated in sit-ins and things And they are honestly expecting you to move, you know? Walk right out like you, you were never there. But there's a song that we sing, which I think answers them very nicely. The song will be, "We Shall Not Be Moved." ♪ We ♪ ♪ Shall not ♪ ♪ We shall not be moved ♪ ♪ We ♪ ♪

- Now we get right down to it. Yeah. (laughing) You know, Amen yeah. The Freedom Singers all work for the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee SNCC has no fancy foundation to support it. No nothing. All we have is The Freedom Singers. All proceeds go to SNCC. The Freedom Singers are treated just like anybody else in SNCC they get a $10 subsistence a week. Out of this has to come everything. Food, gas, all sorts of incidentals. I don't know if you've ever been hungry, but, when that $10 is gone, it's gone and there's nothing there.
