

(crowd cheering)

- That's it, the winning touchdown with seconds to play, a typical Notre Dame finish.

- And, folks, here is Notre Dame coach Terry Brennan.

- Hi, Bud.

- Say, Terry, it seems that Notre Dame makes a habit of putting the pressure on the other team during the second half.

- Well, we try to be up when the other team is tiring, if we can.

- Terry, how do you stand all this strain?

- Well, I find that it helps, Bud, to have a glass of orange juice during the day when that tension is building up.

- Well, it's as important for the coach as well as the team to stay fit.

- You know, after a hard workout or a tough game, I really crave orange juice.

- Well, Terry, some of your professors here could tell you that that craving is your body wisdom.

- Body wisdom, oh, yes. I've heard of that.

- Sure you have, right now that body wisdom is telling you to replace the vitamin C and the energy you just used up. And folks, the same thing goes for all active, busy people. You homemakers use up energy and vitamin C faster, too. And don't forget the small fry. You can be sure they also should have an extra glass of orange juice during the day to replace the vitamin C and energy they've used up. So thank goodness for the convenience and low cost of fresh frozen orange juice. This little can makes four big glasses, packed with Florida sunshine. It has everything, vitamin C, quick energy, and that wonderful Florida flavor. Make an extra pitcher full for those extra glasses every day.