

- Hey there. This little feller is a Texaco stockholder, a gift he got from his grandfather. (soft music)

Bob: He's now one of over 14 million other Americans who invest in oil companies like Texaco, either directly or through organizations like mutual funds. The money they invest helps us find new oil right here at home and creates more jobs, too. Who owns America's oil companies? Over 14 million Americans, isn't that right?

Bob: We're working to keep your trust.